Talking Across Generations on Education (iTAGe)

Deepening a Culture of Peace and Democracy Through Education
UNESCO - MGIEP believes that any strategy aimed at youth cannot be successful without empowering youth, thereby encouraging them to speak up.

As based on UNESCO MGIEP TAGe methodology, iTAGe is a youth-driven intergenerational dialogue on education that provides a nonhierarchical platform for youth to interact, discuss and debate critical issues that concern the future, with policymakers.
Fundación Escuelas de Paz is organizing an independent Talking Across Generations on Education (iTAGe) youth dialogue event in Colombia on the role of education in implementing United Nations Security Council Resolution 2250 on Youth, Peace and Security.

iTAGe will explore the role of education in promoting youth participation and a culture of peace in Colombia, as well as the necessary steps to implement these Resolutions in the country.

UNSCR 2250 and its follow-up resolution UNSCR 2419 recognize the important and positive roles of young people in peacebuilding. The Resolutions emphasize the need to invest in education to promote a culture of peace, the elimination of inequality and discrimination, the promotion of tolerance and the empowerment of youth.
Is it for me?

Are you a young person between the ages of 18 and 35?

Do you want to have your voice heard on matters relating to education and peacebuilding?

Are you interested in promoting a culture of peace in your community and beyond?

If your answer to any of these questions is YES, then we are looking for you!
Why should you participate?

- Your chance to be shortlisted to dialogue with 2 senior decision makers
- Be a part of our focus group discussions
- Contribute your voice to the future of peace education
- Co-author a policy brief about the role of education in promoting youth participation and the implementation of UNSCR 2250

Schools of Peace Foundation is a non profit organization committed to the joint construction of Cultures of Peace and the proactive exercise of Human Rights. We are an interdisciplinary team of professionals who form part of a wider network of recognized national and international institutions promoting new Cultures of Peace.

We strive to convert education into an effective tool that can bring us closer to our collective dream of peace and social justice through leading by good example on both a personal and institutional level. We envision a future where everybody can benefit from a suitable environment in which Cultures of Peace can be developed to transform society.
